Forecast for Sunday 13 Nov 2022

Weather: Rather cloudy at first for Angus and southern Perthshire hills, this may be slow to clear in some more eastern ranges but during the morning clouds thin and break to give some sunshine, the best of this likely towards Ben Vorlich and Ben Lawers. Clouds increasing during the evening with again some light rain or drizzle for the Angus and southern Perthshire hills.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 30% improving 50% for a time during the afternoon, mainly across northern and western ranges.

Low Cloud and visibility: Fairly extensive cloud with bases 400-600 metres, lifting and breaking for a time during the afternoon across northern and western ranges with patches around 700-900 metres. Poor visibility ant times in rain or drizzle across the Angus and southern Perthshire hills.
